

RentPayment CEO Speaking At Crittenden Multifamily Conference

SAN FRANCISCO, CA - March 9, 2010 – The Crittenden Multifamily Conference connects the real estate industry and its professionals during a two and a half day event occurring March 21 - 23, 2010 in Dallas, Texas. The event focuses around educational sessions run by the industry's leading executives, who provide valuable information key to your business's future prosperity in today's constantly evolving real estate market.

Matt Golis, CEO of RentPayment, will lead an education session titled "Industry Trends & Innovations in Online Payments" on March 22. With more than 10 years of experience in electronic payments for the multifamily industry, Mr. Golis is a key industry leader and has been instrumental in transforming electronic rent payments from an emerging trend into a now expected amenity amongst renters.

"Closing leases on-the-spot and collecting rent on-time is an important aspect of being a property manager. RentPayment was built as a fully automatable accounts receivable solution to alleviate stress from both on-site and corporate staff," said Mr. Golis.

The Crittenden Multifamily Conference is attended by apartment owners, property managers, investors, developers and multifamily service providers. RentPayment will be available during the conference to meet and answer questions about electronic payment solutions for the multifamily industry.
